in general, the terrain slopes gradually south toward the black sea, although the country is separated from the sea by a narrow arm of ukraine